- Premature Infant Car Bed Loaner Program for infants 5-9 pounds
DID YOU KNOW 73% OF CAR SEATS ARE NOT USED OR INSTALLED CORRECTLY?

Here’s what you need to know to make sure your children are riding safely:

Stickers on car seats and the car seat manual contain information on the height and weight requirements of that car seat. Parents should read and become familiar with the guidelines of the car seat.

Car seats typically expire 6 years after the manufacture date. The manufacture date is usually stamped into the back or bottom of the seat or on a sticker in the same location. If no expiration date is printed on the seat, discard the car seat after 6 years. Many car seats now show the expiration date along with the manufacture date; some newer seats can be used for longer than 6 years as stated on the seat.

It is recommended that children remain rear-facing until at least 2 years of age or for as long as possible until the child reaches the maximum weight and/or height allowed for the seat. If the child reaches the maximum weight and/or height allowed by the car seat manufacturer before their first birthday, a convertible or 3-in-1 car seat should be used in the rear-facing position.

Children under 4 years of age and those less than 40 pounds should remain in a car seat with a 5-point harness. Children weighing more than 40 pounds can safely and legally be placed in a booster seat using a lap and shoulder seat belt to secure them.

All children less than 8 years of age and who are less than 4’9” must remain in an appropriate child safety seat by New York State Law. The seat belt is not an appropriate child safety seat.

Children less than 13 years of age should ride in the back seat safely secured in an appropriate car seat or seat belt designed for their height and weight.
Did you know that children who are not reading at grade level by the end of third grade are four times more likely to drop out of high school? In Steuben County, only 37 percent of third-grade students scored at the proficient level on the state English Language Arts exam in 2016. The goal of our Kids on Track initiative is to ensure all children are reading at grade level by age 8, so they are set up for success in school, work and life.

We create opportunities for children to:

- Spend time in safe, nurturing, language-rich environments
- Receive health and developmental monitoring
- Engage in developmental play and learning experiences

What Parents Can Do

- Talk, sing and read to your child
- Sign up for in-home family support and developmental screenings
- Get routine well-child check-ups
- Visit Family Resource Centers with your children
- Attend story hours at libraries and elsewhere in the community
- Seek high quality child care or early learning programs that use an evidence-informed curriculum
