Family Meetings Available!

In a perfect world, all family members agree on how to care for a loved one and everybody pitches in to help. Unfortunately, life is much more complex and family conflict is common. The good news is that help is available.

Professionals at the Caregiver Resource Center (CRC) are trained to assist with family discussions to help clarify needs, define roles, and suggest solutions. Families often get “stuck” in patterns that have been evolving over the years and when the stress of caregiving is added to the equation, disagreements can occur.

Let us help you resolve your caregiving issues by moderating a family meeting. There is no cost for this service and all interactions are strictly confidential. Call (607) 664-2298 and ask for the Caregiver Resource Center to discuss options for your family meeting.
